Christie Carrino represents a variety of clients in state and federal court and arbitration on a wide range of civil matters. Her work includes white collar defense, antitrust defense, government and internal investigations, commercial contract disputes, life insurance and annuity sales practices defense, and non-competition and employment disputes.

In her white collar practice, Christie has assisted with multiple internal and government investigations and litigation across the country, representing clients in the financial services, healthcare and environmental industries, as well as representing clients in large, multidistrict antitrust matters. As a commercial litigator, Christie has had success in winning dismissal of cases at the motion to dismiss or summary judgment stage and has successfully effectuated the removal of complex cases to federal court.
